

The Doctoral School of Adam Mickiewicz University
The School of Humanities

Invited Lectures in the Humanities

Coordinators: Prof. UAM dr hab. Emanuel Kulczycki, Dr Krystian Szadkowski

Field/discipline	All disciplines
Form	Seminar
Language	English
Hours	30
Course aim	The series of lectures is intended to allow doctoral students to get an in-depth view of research conducted at the highest international level. Through direct contact with the leading experienced researchers, as well as successful emerging scholars, doctoral students will have an opportunity not only to broaden their perspectives but moreover, to follow the patterns of career development in the global academic environment. The invited lectures series will allow doctoral students to draw inspiration from the whole range of disciplines represented in the School of Humanities at Adam Mickiewicz University. The content of the lectures is supposed to cover the following disciplines: anthropology, ethnology, philosophy, history, art history, cultural studies, religion, theology.
Learning contents	The group of lecturers will consist of leading experts and researchers from Poland and Europe. During the first cycle, ten lectures and accompanying events (optionally organised seminars, series of individual consultations of doctoral projects) are planned.
Prerequisites	N/A
Learning outcomes
After completing the module and confirming the achievement of the learning outcomes, the student will:		Assessment criteria
Be familiar with the state-of-the-art research in the contemporary humanities		Discussions during the seminar
Be aware of the different modes of work in the humanities		Discussions during the seminar
Be familiar with the advanced research methods in the humanities		Discussions during the seminar
Additional information	Aula XVII, Rektorat UAM, Thursdays, 17:00 The first lecture starts on 16 th of January 2020.	